Commercialization of Christmas is perennially a complaint of chronic Scrooges and others who like to think that business is vever up to any good. No one can deny that consumer shopping is vastly expanded during the Christmas season. Anyone who can read knows that the newspaper is a major factor in stimulating the Christmas trade. So commercialization of Christmas and newspaper advertising is often linked together.

But before anyone is critical of the merchant or Christmas newspaper advertising, he should take a close look at the items advertised. He should ask where, if any, waste is involved. Over 90 per cent of the goods advertised as suggestions to Christmas shoppers are necessities. They are goods which are just as much needed in June as December.

Most often listed gift suggestions are coats, dresses, shoes, household appliances, furniture, books, tableware, watches, records, record players, and even various kinds of pots and pans. The fact is that, for most American families, Christmas shopping is mainly delayed shopping. Real needs are postponed until Christmas so they might be purchased as gifts.

The custom is neither the making of the retailer nor the newspaper. It is a buying choice of the Christmas season meets a consumer demand for information at a time when the consumer has chosen to buy.

AN ALPHABET OF CHRISTMAS WORDS

Reindeer, an old Norse word, comes from "hreinn," (sometimes spelled "hran"). Explanations of the "rein" origin are obscure; but "deer" may stem from the Greek "Theos," (God) with the idea of "breather" or "animator."

Stocking, (hung by the chimney with care), comes from Germanic sources, meaning "to cover the leg." Actually there are 65 meanings of "stock," including the handle of a pistol and a swarm of Turkey, as name of a bird, was erroneously hung on the large North American fowl, by colonists who thought it resembled the smaller African guinea fowl, imported into Europe through Turkey.

Japan's famous "Floating Fair" ship, the Sakura Maru, is making its North American debut tour which will take it to nine metropolitan centers of the United States and Canada by August. Commercialization of Christmas is perennially a complaint of chronic Scrooges and others who like to think that business is sever up to any good. No one can deny that consumer shopping is vastly expanded during the Christmas season. Anyone who can read knows that the newspaper is a major factor in stimulating the Christmas trade.

So commercialization of Christmas and newspaper advertising is often linked together.

But before anyone is critical of the merchant or Christmas newspaper advertising, he should take a close look at the items advertised. He should ask where, if any, waste is involved. Over 90 per cent of the goods advertised as suggestions to Christmas shoppers are necessities. They are goods which are just as much needed in June as December.

Most often listed gift suggestions are coats, dresses, shoes, household appliances, furniture, books, tableware, watches, records, record players, and even various kinds of pots and pans. The fact is that, for most American families, Christmas shopping is mainly delayed shopping. Real needs are postponed until Christmas so they might be purchased as gifts.

The custom is neither the making of the retailer nor the newspaper. It is a buying choice of the Increased newspaper advertising during the Christmas season meets a consumer demand for information at a time when the consumer has chosen to buy.

The merchant who expands his advertising at Christmas necessarily assures the consumer that delayed demand can be supplied at the consumer's convenience.

NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS ON BEACON HILL, BOSTON

One of the unique Christmas Eve festivities is the annual performance of the Beacon Hill Bell Ringers in historic Louisburg Square.

In this bit of architecturally unspoiled Boston, not far from the Common, stand immaculately retained old homes with white Colonial doors pened wide, with well-appointed vestibules symbolizing a welcome open house to many, many visitors.

When the clock strikes eight in the evening, the Bell Ringers appear with their finely attuned bells (cast by the Whitechapel Foundry of London, England, casters of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia and the bells of the Old North Church) to begin their concert of Yuletide tunes. Many of the visitors sing along as they meander through the square and the narrow streets that climb from the Charles river embankment to the State House.

The tradition began with the late Dr. Arthur H. Nichols a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths (an organization of Bell Ringers of England founded in 1637), when he helped reestablish the art in the Old North Church, whose original bell-ringer agreement, signed in 1750, included on Paul Revere.

Dr. Nichols, with the assistance of Bishop William Lawrence, succeeded in raising funds to rehang the old bells in the Old North Church tower. The repairs were completed just in time to celebrate the 18th of April 1894. They rang before and after the church services while hundreds gathered in the streets to hear the bells, which had not been rung since the day Marquis de Lafavette visited Boston.

Dr. Nichol's daughter, Mrs. Margaret Shurcliff, while visiting England in 1902, rang a full peal of bells and was elected a member of the England Society of College Youths, the only woman ever to have been elected to such honor. Mrs. Shurcliff with her children, grandchildren and members of her group, performed the bell ringing of Christmas Carols on Beacon Hill. She organized the new England Guild of Hand Bell Ringers in 1935, and in 1954 formed the American Guild of Bell Ringers.

A TIME FOR REMEMBERING

Christmas is a time for remembering. And sometimes, a Christmas card is the only link in a chain of friendship that miles and time have weakened. Like a magic lantern, Christmas cards you receive can conjure up pictures of people and places you haven't seen in years.

That's why the Christmas cards you choose to represent you in the homes of friends and family should be selected most carefully. In our wonderfully varied collection of quality Hallmark designs, you'll find a card perfectly suited to be your personal messenger of good will and good taste. And when your Hallmark cards arrive, you can be sure your friends will be glad you remembered.

A TIME FOR REMEMBERING

Christmas is a time for remembering. And sometimes, a Christmas card is the only link in a chain of friendship that miles and time have weakened. Like a magic lantern, Christmas cards you receive can conjure up pictures of people and places you haven't seen in years.

That's why the Christmas cards you choose to represent you in the homes of friends and family should be selected most carefully. In our wonderfully varied collection of quality Hallmark designs, you'll find a card perfectly suited to be your personal messenger of good will and good taste. And when your Hallmark cards arrive, you can be sure your friends will be glad you remembered.

CHARLESTON -- December looks like a merry month for food consumers, for a variety of tasty foods awaits them at their favorite stores.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service has placed always popular turkeys at the top of its list of foods in plentiful supply. Oranges and grapefruit from the new season's crop are on the list, too, along with grape juice, broiler fryers, and cabbage. December turkey marketings are expected to run about 4 percent ahead of a year earlier, and cold storage stocks are substantially larger than last December. Marketings of broiler-fryers in this festive month are expected to be below the extremely high increasing exports of soybeans and soybean meal to European buyers is optimistic thinks Otto Schulte, vice president in charge of grain marketing for the Missouri Farmers Association.

Schulte was a member of sevenmember soybean trade mission that recently visited England, France, Netherlands, Spain and West Germany. On the trip they contacted importers, crushers, fed mixers, retiners, government officials and appropriate U.S. Embassy people.

The five countries visited now account for dollar sales of U. S. soybeans, and the meal equivalent of soybeans, equal to 163 million bushels with a value of 450 million dollars.

"We can expect an increase of 15 to 20 percent per year over the next five year period," Schulte said. "In the next two years, I anticipate an increase of exports of about 50 million bushels -- $150 million."

The expected increase reflects his appraisal of new sovbean crushing capacity, either planned or being built, as well as increased meal demand to meet the needs of the expanding livestock and poultry industries in the five countries. "The people

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Rodney's bomb shelter as a necessary medical expense?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that the shelter was not for the "diagnosis, cure, mitigation or treatment of an existing disease" so as to permit its cost to be deducted as a medical expense. And despite Rodney's anxiety over a nuclear attack, he added, the present dangers from fallout are too remote a health hazard to permit the

oos. The saddest thing about peo- Do you think we could have a good ple who should NOT be married marriage? - MIRROR IMAGE Bomb Shelter Can't both would have been better off scious or unconscious, even when no physical resemblance exists. Be Tax Deduction

BY JACK STRAUSS, L.L.D.

The only thing Rodney feared was fear itself. In particular, he was scared silly that he'd be blownup in a surprise nuclear attack and developed a severe case of hypertension. To alleviate it, his doctor advised him to build a bomb shelter. Unfortunately, the high cost of building the shelter also upset Rodney. The remedy for this, however, was simple. Rodney merely deducted the cost of the shelter from his income taxes as a medical expense.

"Who-a-a-!" protested a tax agent, "You can't do that, Building a bomb shelter isn't a health measure."

"Are you kidding?" was Rodney's answer. "Of course it is. If anybody drops a bomb, it's more likely to preserve the state of my health than anything else. Besides," he added, "It was prescribed by my doctor to ease my hypertension. And it worked. It's mere presence has done more for my mental and physical health than any pill he ever gave me." The deduction was disallowed, however, and Rodney took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Rodney's bomb shelter as a necessary medical expense?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that the shelter was not for the "diagnosis, cure, mitigation or treatment of an existing disease" so as to permit its cost to be deducted as a medical expense, And despite Rodney's anxiety over a nuclear attack, he added, the present dangers from fallout are too remote a health hazard to permit the deduction.
